

Please replace the abstract with the following new abstract:

--Abstract

An implant for releasing an active substance into a vessel through which a body medium flows, the implant comprising a base consisting of a biodegradable material as the carrier of the active substance to be released. The body medium flows around the base on the inside and/or outside thereof.--